About the Author Erin Amerman has been involved in anatomy and physiology education for more than 15 years as an author and professor. She is presently teaching at Florida State College of Jacksonville. She received a B.S. in cellular and molecular biology from the University of West Florida and a Doctorate in Podiatric Medicine from Des Moines University. Dr. Amerman is the author of the best-selling Exploring Anatomy and Physiology in the Laboratory series with Morton Publishing Company, and of the textbook Human Anatomy and Physiology with Pearson Education (to be released in January 2015). She is deeply committed to helping her students succeed in the AP course, and generating curiosity and excitement about the material and its application in their future careers. When she is not writing or in the classroom, Dr. Amerman enjoys photographing the local wildlife around her home in rural northern Florida, particularly snakes and other reptiles. You can often find her hiking around the prairie with a camera and snake hook in hand. She also enjoys spending time with her family and her menagerie of rescued animals, including cats, dogs, pet rats, snakes, tetras, and a turtle. She earned black belts in karate and kobudo in 2013, though she hasn't yet used her karate skills to motivate her students to study.
